A detailed black and white photograph of a fossilized insect, likely a wasp or similar Hymenoptera, showing its segmented body and wing venation. The fossil is oriented vertically, with the head at the top and the abdomen at the bottom. The head is small and rounded, with visible antennae. The thorax is large and robust, with two large wings attached. The wings are heavily veined, with a complex pattern of veins visible. The abdomen is long and segmented, with a distinct pattern of ridges or segments. The fossil is set against a light, textured background, possibly a rock surface.
